

In 2018, Pakistan made a moderate advancement in efforts to eliminate the worst forms of child labor. All four provincial governments started conducting child labor surveys, which will constitute the first nationwide child labor survey since 1996. The federal government also passed the Prevention of Trafficking in Persons Act and convicted its first child pornography case. In addition, Khyber Pakhtunkhwa, Punjab, and Sindh provinces each adopted new policies that will address child labor. However, children in Pakistan engage in the worst forms of child labor, including in forced domestic work and in bonded labor in brick kilns and agriculture. Although the federal and provincial governments made meaningful efforts in all relevant areas during the reporting period, the federal government and Balochistan Province have not established a minimum age for work or hazardous work in compliance with international standards. In addition, provincial governments do not have the resources necessary to adequately enforce laws prohibiting child labor.

I. PREVALENCE AND SECTORAL DISTRIBUTION OF CHILD LABOR

Children in Pakistan engage in the worst forms of child labor, including in forced domestic work and in bonded labor in brick kilns and agriculture. (1,2) Table 1 provides key indicators on children's work and education in Pakistan. Data on some of these indicators are not available from the sources used in this report.

† Determined by national law or regulation as hazardous and, as such, relevant to Article 3(d) of ILO C. 182.

‡ Child labor understood as the worst forms of child labor per se under Article 3(a)–(c) of ILO C. 182.

Pakistan consists of four provinces—Balochistan, Khyber Pakhtunkhwa, Punjab, and Sindh—and the Islamabad Capital Territory, each of which is responsible for all social services, including those related to labor, within their areas. Law enforcement responsibilities are shared between the federal and provincial governments. (45) When available, data and information are included for the federal and provincial governments in this report.

In 2018, all four provincial governments began conducting child labor surveys, which together will constitute a nationwide child labor survey. The surveys were funded in 2017 and are on track to be completed in 2019. (8) The most recent national child labor survey was conducted in 1996, and the lack of recent data has hampered the ability of the federal and provincial governments to accurately assess the scope and prevalence of child labor. (46)

Many child domestic workers are working under conditions of forced labor, including debt bondage, sexual assault, and extreme physical abuse. (2,25) Some children work with their families as bonded laborers in the production of bricks. (6,37,47) In addition, non-state armed militant groups forcibly recruited and used children in terrorist activities, including suicide attacks. These militant groups include Tehreek-e-Taliban Pakistan, and reports state that children were recruited from madrassas (Islamic religious schools). (8,48)

Many children face barriers to accessing education due to high rates of teacher absenteeism, inadequate facilities, lack of transportation, and corporal punishment, which may deter children from attending school. (8,49,50) Moreover, while reports state that the total number of terrorist attacks have decreased since 2009, armed groups and extremist groups continue to attack and threaten students, teachers, and schools, disrupting children’s access to education. (48,51)

II. LEGAL FRAMEWORK FOR CHILD LABOR

Pakistan has ratified most key international conventions concerning child labor (Table 3).

The government has established laws and regulations related to child labor (Table 4). However, gaps exist in Pakistan's legal framework to adequately protect children from the worst forms of child labor, including the minimum age for work and hazardous work.

* No conscription (75)

The federal and provincial governments have concurrent jurisdiction over labor legislation. (80) According to the Constitution, both federal and provincial governments can pass legislation on criminal law. (81)

In 2018, the federal government enacted the Prevention of Trafficking in Persons Act, which brings the law into compliance with international standards by exempting children from the requirement that force, fraud, or coercion must be proven to constitute trafficking and by including all trafficking for forced labor and commercial sexual exploitation. (67) In addition, the National Assembly passed a bill entitled the Islamabad Capital Territory Prohibition of Employment of Children Act, which would prohibit the employment of children age 14 and younger in any establishment, including agricultural and household establishments. The bill would also prohibit the employment of adolescents ages 15–18 from employment in hazardous work and establishes a schedule of hazardous work prohibited for adolescents. (82) The Senate must approve the bill before it can be enacted. (8) Lastly, a law banning domestic work for children under age 15 in Punjab Province came into effect in early 2019. (83,84)

However, Pakistan's federal and provincial laws are not completely in compliance with international standards on child labor. The federal government's minimum age for work is not in compliance with international standards because it does not extend to informal employment. Sindh Province's laws setting the minimum age for work also do not extend to informal work or factories that employ fewer than 10 persons. (61,62) The federal minimum age for hazardous work also does not comply with international standards because it is below age 18. (64) Balochistan Province has not established a minimum age for employment or for hazardous work, and, therefore, federal child employment laws apply in Balochistan. (46,64) In addition, hazardous work prohibitions for the federal government and the Khyber Pakhtunkhwa, Punjab, and Sindh provinces do not cover brickmaking and domestic work, for which there is evidence that children are exposed to environmental health hazards in brickmaking and physical abuse in domestic work. (19,26,56,60,63,64)

Federal law does not prohibit the use of children for prostitution or pornographic performances. (66) In addition, federal and provincial laws, with the exception of Punjab provincial law, do not prohibit the use of children in drug production and drug trafficking. (60,72) The federal and provincial governments, with the exception of Punjab Province, have not enacted laws that prohibit the recruitment and use of children by non-state groups for armed conflict. (11)

III. ENFORCEMENT OF LAWS ON CHILD LABOR

The government has established institutional mechanisms for the enforcement of laws and regulations on child labor (Table 5). However, gaps exist within the operations of the provincial labor inspectorates that may hinder adequate enforcement of their child labor laws.

Table 5. Agencies Responsible for Child Labor Law Enforcement

Organization/Agency	Role
Provincial Labor Inspectors	Inspects industrial areas and markets to identify child labor violations, enforces provincial labor laws, and pursues legal action against employers. (11)
Labor Courts	Assesses penalties for labor violations. (8,85,86)
Provincial and Regional Police	Enforces violations of federal and provincial laws, including the Pakistan Penal Code, Prevention of Trafficking in Persons Act, and the Bonded Labor System (Abolition) Act, concerning the worst forms of child labor. Refer children taken into custody to Child Protection Officers. (11,83)
District Vigilance Committees	Implements the Bonded Labor System (Abolition) Act and assists in rehabilitating bonded laborers. Reports to the District Magistrate. (11,65)
Federal Investigation Agency, Anti-Trafficking Unit	Enforces transnational human trafficking-related laws, particularly the Prevention of Trafficking in Persons Act. Cooperates with other governments on human trafficking cases, operates a hotline for victims, and publishes information on anti-trafficking efforts on its website. (8,11)
Child Protection Units	Takes into custody at-risk children, including those rescued from exploitative labor situations. Presents cases of children taken into custody to the Child Protection Court or the appropriate authority. Established in Punjab, Khyber Pakhtunkhwa, and Sindh provinces. (11,72,74,87-89)

During the reporting period, the Government of Balochistan Province had not yet established Child Protection Units throughout the Province as mandated by the 2016 Balochistan Child Protection Act; however, in 2018, the provincial government did launch a pilot Child Protection Unit in Quetta in preparation for establishing additional units. In addition, while District Vigilance Committees are functioning in Punjab Province and reportedly functioning in Sindh Province, they are not yet functional in Balochistan and Khyber Pakhtunkhwa provinces. (37,90)

Labor Law Enforcement

In 2018, labor law enforcement agencies in Pakistan took actions to combat child labor (Table 6). However, gaps exist within the operations of the Provincial Labor Inspectors that may hinder adequate labor law enforcement, including lack of data on provincial government efforts to enforce child labor laws.

† Data are from January - September 5, 2018 (93)

Following the devolution of federal powers to provincial governments, the provinces are responsible for enforcing labor laws, including those involving child labor law violations. (11) Provincial labor departments collect comprehensive data on labor law enforcement at the district level. However, there is no centralized repository for the data, nor any regular mechanism for reporting it to the federal government. (8) Therefore, limited labor inspection data are available for the provincial governments.

Based on 2017 data, the number of labor inspectors is likely insufficient for the size of Pakistan's workforce, which includes approximately 64 million workers. According to the ILO's technical advice of a ratio approaching 1 inspector for every 15,000 workers in developing economies, Pakistan would employ about 4,259 labor inspectors. (95-97) Labor inspectorates do not receive sufficient resources, which may hamper the labor inspectors' ability to inspect workplaces. (44,83,98,99) For example, labor departments in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa, Punjab, and Sindh provinces did not provide funds to cover the cost of transportation to conduct inspections. (8) In Sindh Province, it is reported that inspectors stopped conducting unannounced inspections due to complaints of harassment filed against inspectors by employers. (94) Across the provinces, fines and penalties were assessed infrequently and were insufficient to deter employers from using child labor. (45,100)

In 2018, efforts were made by the provincial governments to increase labor inspectorate capacity and enforce child labor laws. For example, the Government of Sindh Province hired 32 new labor inspectors, and labor inspectors in Punjab Province received training through the ILO's Strengthening Labor Inspection Systems in Pakistan project. (8) Between January and August 2018, the Punjab Labor Welfare Department found 65 cases of child labor during inspections of 482 brick kilns, and 33 cases of child labor during inspections of 732 establishments. (93)

During the reporting period, Sindh Province also strengthened protections against child labor by enacting the Sindh Home-Based Workers Act. The act requires the establishment of a Sindh Workers Welfare Board, which is mandated to conduct a survey of home-based work for the identification and removal of hazardous conditions, and to discourage the use of child labor in home-based work. (101)

Criminal Law Enforcement

In 2018, criminal law enforcement agencies in Pakistan took actions to combat child labor (Table 7). However, gaps exist within the operations of the criminal enforcement agencies that may hinder adequate criminal law enforcement, including data on federal and provincial government efforts to enforce laws criminally prohibiting the worst forms of child labor.

Table 7. Criminal Law Enforcement Efforts Related to Child Labor

While the federal and provincial governments do not publish data on efforts to enforce laws prohibiting the worst forms of child labor, the federal government did report on efforts to enforce Section 366/A of the federal Penal Code prohibiting the procurement of minor girls under age 18. (8,92) In 2018, there were 2 registered cases involving Penal Code Section 366/A in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa Province, 19 in Punjab Province, and 7 in Sindh Province. In addition, there was 1 case prosecuted in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa Province, 18 in Punjab Province, and 2 in Sindh Province. During the reporting period, Pakistan's federal government also convicted its first perpetrator in a child pornography case. The perpetrator was sentenced to 7 years in prison for distributing child pornography as part of an international child pornography cyber network. (8,102,103)

In 2018, Punjab Province strengthened protections for forced labor victims, including children, by adopting the Punjab Bonded Labour System (Abolition) Amendment Act, which increased penalties for employing bonded laborers by requiring perpetrators to both serve time in prison and pay a fine. (104)

IV. COORDINATION OF GOVERNMENT EFFORTS ON CHILD LABOR

The government has established mechanisms to coordinate its efforts to address child labor (Table 8). However, gaps exist that hinder the effective coordination of efforts to address child labor, including fulfilling mandates to establish coordinating mechanisms.

Table 8. Key Mechanisms to Coordinate Government Efforts on Child Labor

Coordinating Body	Role & Description
Provincial Child Labor Units	Coordinates and initiates interventions against child labor at the provincial level. (91)
Provincial and Federal Tripartite Consultative Committees	Advises on the enforcement of labor laws, including child labor laws and monitors the functioning of labor departments at the provincial level. Monitors the implementation of provinces' proposed interventions on child and forced labor at the federal level. (91)
Interagency Task Force	Coordinates the anti-human trafficking efforts of the Ministry of the Interior; intelligence and law enforcement agencies; the Ministry of Law and Justice; and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Supports 27 Federal Investigation Agency anti-trafficking units that work with provincial and district police officers to monitor and combat domestic and transnational human trafficking. (37,106) Maintains an Integrated Border Management System. (107)
Balochistan Child Protection Commission	Coordinates efforts related to child protection at the provincial and district levels, advises on relevant policies and legislation, and supports the implementation of child protection referral mechanisms. Led by the Balochistan Social Welfare Department, various government departments, including the Education, Health and Labor departments, and law enforcement agencies. (89)
Khyber Pakhtunkhwa Child Protection and Welfare Commission	Coordinates efforts to enhance the safety, welfare, and well-being of children at the provincial and local levels. Reviews and monitors implementation of provincial laws and regulations related to child labor and those that affect the rights of children. (72) Led by the Province's Social Welfare, Special Education and Women Empowerment Department. (108)
Punjab Child Protection and Welfare Bureau	Coordinates the protection of destitute and neglected children by appointing child protection officers, supervising child protection units, and establishing child protection institutions and child protection courts. Chaired by an elected member of the board, which consists of three department secretaries, three members of the provincial assembly, and representatives from NGOs and academia. (74)
Sindh Child Protection Authority	Coordinates efforts to ensure the rights of children in need of special protection, including child laborers, by establishing child protection units and appointing child protection officers. Reviews and proposes amendments to existing laws and monitors the implementation of laws relevant to the protection of children. (88) Headed by the provincial minister; members include two parliamentarians, lawyers, social activists, and representatives from departments that deal with children's issues. (109)

In 2018, the federal government enacted the Islamabad Capital Territory Child Protection System Act, which mandates the establishment of a Child Protection Advisory Board. Once established, the board's responsibilities will include advising the government on the implementation of relevant laws and policies, ensuring that the child protection mechanism is effective, maintaining a case management system, regulating caregiver organizations, and submitting an annual report. (110) However, the federal government has not yet established the National Commission on the Rights of the Child as mandated by law. (8) Research was unable to determine whether existing coordinating bodies were active during the reporting period.

V. GOVERNMENT POLICIES ON CHILD LABOR

The government has established policies related to child labor (Table 9). However, policy gaps exist that hinder efforts to address child labor, including mainstreaming child labor issues into relevant policies.

Table 9. Key Policies Related to Child Labor

Policy	Description
Sindh and Punjab Provincial Plans of Action to Combat Bonded Labor	Details how the Sindh and Punjab provinces plan to revise their bonded labor laws. Includes plans to strengthen the capacity of labor inspectors, generate awareness of bonded labor, improve reporting, and computerize labor inspection data. (111) During the reporting period, research was unable to determine what steps were taken to implement these plans
Sindh Labor Policy†	Seeks to protect vulnerable workers, including children. Includes goals to enforce laws dealing with hazardous child labor, extend the minimum age for employment in domestic and home-based work, ensure minimum wages for working children, and increase access to education and training. (112) Research was unable to determine what steps were taken to implement this policy.

‡ The government had other policies that may have addressed child labor issues or had an impact on child labor. (116-120)

† This policy was implemented during the reporting year.

In 2018, it was reported that the Khyber Pakhtunkhwa provincial cabinet approved a child labor policy, which would be the first child labor policy in Pakistan. Research has been unable to find a copy of the child labor policy. (8,121) During the reporting period, Punjab's provincial government also approved Punjab Labor Policy 2018, which is reported to include goals to conduct a Province-wide child labor survey, launch an online reporting and case management system for child labor, provide trainings for labor inspectors on child labor laws, and enroll out-of-school children in education programs. (122,123) Research has been unable to find a copy of the new labor policy. (8)

The provincial governments' education policies have not included child labor elimination and prevention strategies. (116-119)

VI. SOCIAL PROGRAMS TO ADDRESS CHILD LABOR

In 2018, the government funded and participated in programs that include the goal of eliminating or preventing child labor (Table 10). However, gaps exist in these social programs, including the adequacy of programs to address the full scope of the problem.

Table 10. Key Social Programs to Address Child Labor

Program	Description
Bait-ul-Mal Programs‡	Government-funded programs that aim to remove children from child labor, including its worst forms, and to increase vulnerable children's access to education. Programs include the National Centers for Rehabilitation of Child Labor and the Child Support Program. (124,125) During the reporting period, research was unable to determine what steps were taken to implement this program during the reporting period.
Elimination of Child Labor and Bonded Labor Project (Integrated Project for Promotion of "Decent Work for Vulnerable Workers" in Punjab Province)†	Punjab Province-funded programs that aim to provide education to vulnerable children, rehabilitate bonded laborers working in brick kilns, promote integration and coordination of government responses, strengthen legislation, increase the capacity of law enforcement and service providers, and increase the knowledge base on these issues. (47,127,128) Project activities have been on hold since the transition to a newly elected provincial government in August 2018. (8)
ILO-Funded Projects	ILO projects in Pakistan aimed to eliminate child labor, including the $216,000 project Sustaining GSP Plus Status by Strengthened National Capacities to Improve International Labor Standards (ILS) Compliance and Reporting (2015–2018), and the $465,000 project Elimination of Child Labor and Promotion of Decent Work in the Stora Enso Value Chain in Pakistan (2015–2018). (129)

† Program is funded by the Government of Pakistan.

The social programs of the federal and provincial governments are insufficient to address the prevalence and scope of Pakistan's child labor problem. Existing programs also do not provide enough protection and rehabilitation services for bonded child laborers and victims of human trafficking. (37) Government initiatives are needed to specifically target child labor in the informal sector, including child labor and forced child labor in domestic work. (99) Furthermore, additional social programs are necessary to raise awareness and provide assistance to children used by non-state militant groups to engage in armed conflict. (130)
